

Jim Roache

Jim Roache comes to us from St. John's, Newfoundland (that's in Canada), and seems to be proud of it. He stated his interest was Canada and, in particular, Newfoundland.

Jim, 21, is an amateur geologist and rockhound (would you believe a pebble pooch??). He says he loves earth science, the outdoors, people, and social affairs. Jim should be well prepared for the Ambassador College way of life. He worked some fifty hours a week, four years in high school and through one year of college at Southwest Missouri State.

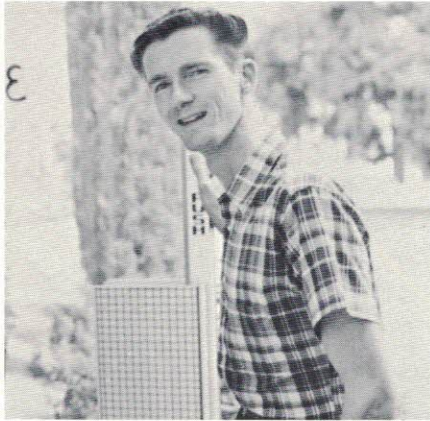

Bev Sanderson

John Rogers is a local yokel — having been a resident of Pasadena most of his life and having attended Pasadena City College. His hobbies deal with natural science. His interests deal with sports, in which he has won a number of awards.

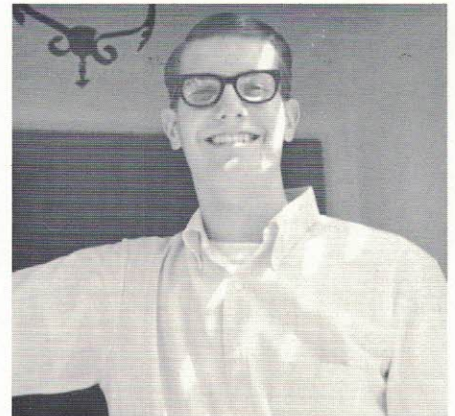

Karyne Scates

Tom Rogers comes to Ambassador as a transfer from Washington and Lee University after one year. Tom lettered in track, loves tennis, has a yen for the piano, is interested in radio, and was a member of the National Honor Society in high school.

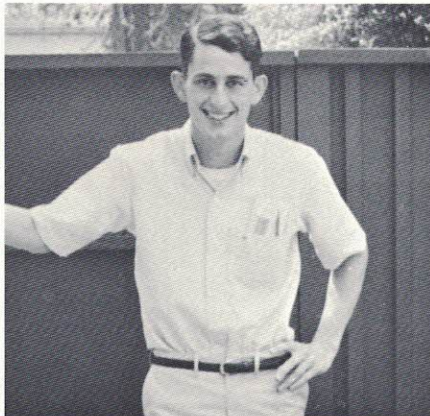

Jim Roberts

Bev Sanderson hails from Adrian, Michigan. She plays the flute and dabbles "a bit" in art. Bev has had various pets in her life, including bats, a yellow-billed cuckoo, a ram named Clarence. As a member of a family of eight, Bev should feel right at home in our own big Ambassador family.

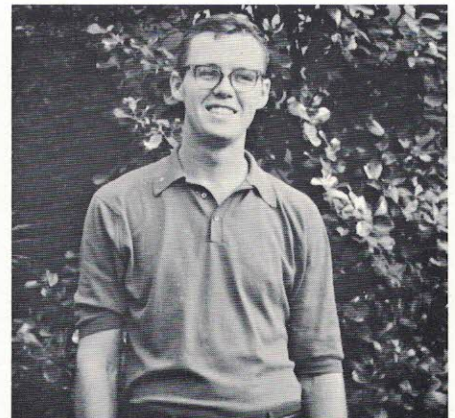

Bernie Schnippert

Karyne spent most of her arduous 17 years of life in Vancouver, Washington. She even spent a few of those arduous years going to the same high school that Mr. Basil Wolverton graduated from. Among her interests are WRITING.

John Rogers

Meet WA3AWF. All ham radio operators know Bernie by these call letters. Bernie hails from Mt. Lebanon, Pennsylvania. As you might guess, besides radio, 6' 7" Bernie likes basketball. We hope you can serve well on the freshman team this year, Bernie.

Dick Schwaab

Purdue University is where Dick went for two years. Then he went for three years at another university and now has a B.A. in math and a teaching certificate. Dick is also an experienced custodian (Hello, Mr. Lindsey).

Zenda Shankles

Kathy Shobe

Paul Shumway

Suzanne Sloan

Zenda Shankles was born in Tucumcari (Tu-cum-cari — more than one!), New Mexico. She learned of Ambassador from her grandparents and has held up, as a goal, coming here since her sophomore year in high school. Her senior year, she edited the school yearbook. She attended Texas Tech. and can cue us in on dorm life in a "big" college — with 20,000 students. Can you imagine the chaos that would ensue if their water heaters broke down?

Water skiing, canoeing and horseback riding are Kathy's favorite activities. Kathy learned to appreciate these things when she was a pioneer student at S.E.P. She graduated from high school in Derby, Kansas and says, "All the hard work in high school paid off when that letter came (from Ambassador)."

Before Ambassador, Paul played baseball and ran cross-country in high school. He was the baseball team's captain and most improved player two successive years. Paul was also interested in student government and spent one year at Cal State at Fullerton working on a chemistry major.

Suzanne is an animal lover. Her favorite pet is a skunk (which she left back home in Ohio). Besides being an animal lover, she sang in the school chorus, made the National Honor Society, and was a class secretary for two years.

Freshmen girls take note! It is Doug's goal to date YOU at least once this year. Doug has had one year of junior college with a forestry major. He loves outdoor activities, especially swimming and skiing.

Larry Smith comes to us from Pen Argyl, Pennsylvania, and the Army National Guard. He has worked as a monotype operator for a large technical printing company and has been in charge of a bindery that put out 6 magazines (take note Mr. Justus!).

Russell Smith has lived most of his life in California. But he was born in Detroit, Michigan. And he has lived in Canada, Ohio, Oregon, Washington, Nebraska, Puerto Rico, and New Mexico. Rus deduces from this that he has led a nomadic life.

Susan Smith hails from Philadelphia, via Fredricksburg, Pa. Her fortes include typing, volleyball, tennis and swimming. Susan enjoys watching gymnastics.

Harry Sneider

Jack Sowder

Ron Sower

A little over a year ago, Van was introduced to The WORLD TOMORROW by his mother. He's had two years of previous college at Arlington State College and T.C.U. Van enjoys a variety of sports — swimming, volleyball, basketball, football, and tennis.

Twenty-six-year-old, Latvian-born Harry Sneider received his Associate of Arts degree with a P.E. major from the University of Minnesota, where he played football and lifted weights. He says, "I hope that I can help you to take off those extra pounds, or inches, or maybe — in your case — to put them on."

Jack's hometown was famous even during the time of Archimedes. He migrates here from Friend's University, where he majored in history, after living most of his life in Eureka, Kansas.

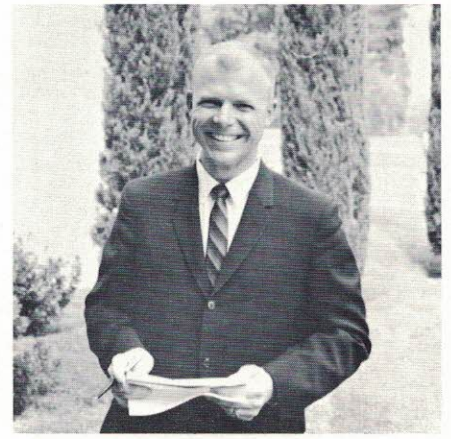

Ron Sower is a man of diversified interests. He loves skiing (water and snow), soap carving, swimming, scuba diving, flying, and stamp collecting. He went to Idaho State University and San Bernardino Valley College. He spent three years in the Marines.

Dan Spencer is married and has two "kids." He has spent most of his life here in California and in particular Whittier. He attended Whittier College and Long Beach State, majoring in Business. He was a Naval Aviation Cadet and is interested in flying. He also plays golf. Dan has worked as a sales representative for the past seven years, but now we are glad to have him here.

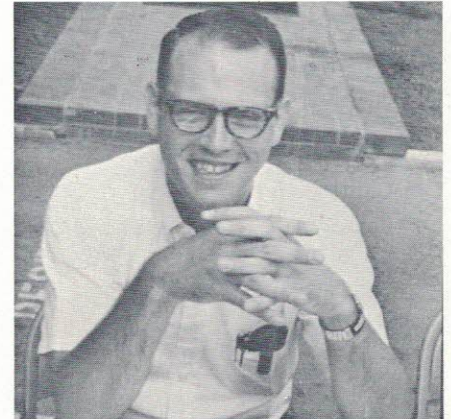

Roy gave up his fellowship and jumped at the chance to attend Ambassador. He received his M.S. in physics last May from West Virginia University. His hobbies include square dancing, bowling, and conducting a comparative study of languages.

John Strain comes to Ambassador from Logan, West Virginia. He studied engineering for 7 years at Ohio State University. John says that he is "most proficient in basketball and handball."

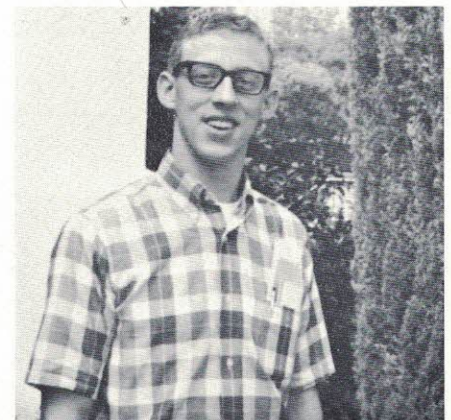

Leora Strand has lived on a farm "all my life, so I can even milk a cow!" she says. Leora was active in mixed chorus and various singing groups during high school. She attended Minot State College for two years, majoring in education.

Robin Sutcliffe

Robin Sutcliffe took the long way to Ambassador, Pasadena. She began in Temora, New South Wales, Australia, moved to Bricket Wood when her father was accepted, took correspondence courses to go through elementary school, and pioneered as an Imperial student in Bricket Wood.

Four years in the service and one year of junior college give Eugene Taber a background of experience and an interest in Spanish and French. Eugene never thought much of education while in high school, but he has come to Ambassador and is determined to "turn over a new tree."

Doug is a 20-year-old native of California who has lived most of his life in Iowa. Doug describes himself as, "just a plain old farm boy who lost his ability." He can play the trumpet and was a music major at the University of South Dakota.

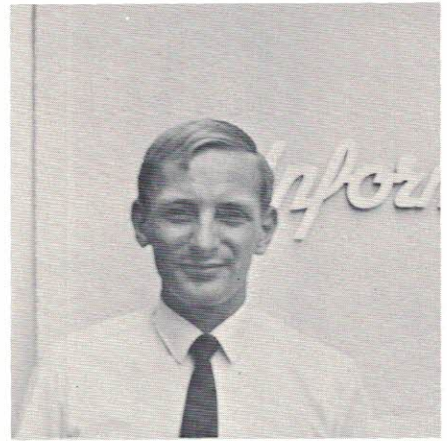

Francis Toler grew up on a farm in North Carolina. He was a member of the National Beta Club, reporter for his school's science club, and was selected as chief typist for his school's yearbook.

Don't let Dan's M.S. in physics fool you. He is not all weak eyes, messy hair, and books. While a student at the University of Oregon, he still had time to be on the cross-country team, winning second in national collegiate competition twice ('63 and '64).

Nona has lived most of her life in Pasadena, having attended Imperial Schools here and in Big Sandy. She has traveled all over the West, and states that, "traveling has been embedded into my blood!" Water skiing and playing basketball are two of her favorite activities.

Barry Toth hails from the "windy city of Chicago." His family has been attending church for 10 years, old-timers no less. He's a graduate of Valparaiso High School and lists his interests as basketball, speaking Spanish (Ah, so!) and playing the cornet.

Sheila, too, has traveled a long way to Ambassador College. Her family heard The WORLD TOMORROW in Canada after moving there from London. Sheila is interested in history, in archaeology, in knitting, and in music.

John Turner

Have you met John Turner yet? He's one of those big ones. John came from Atchison, Kansas, where he played football and a few other sports. John also loves to read, hunt and fish.

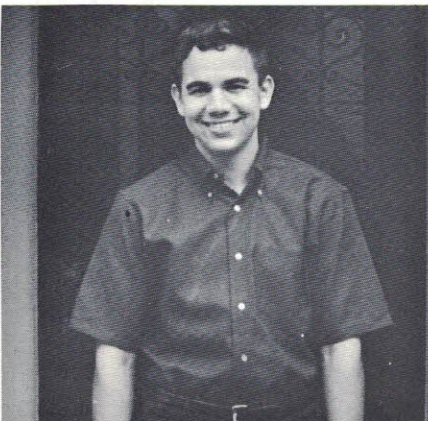

Playing the clarinet and the piano are only two of Sue's many talents. She has a senior lifesaving badge and has spent one summer teaching swimming lessons. At Ambassador she plans to major in Home Economics, her specialty.

Sue Van Hoozer

Meet a two-year member of the FFA (Future Full-time Ambassadors) from Ada, and Norman, Oklahoma. Jack has worked as a farmhand, service station attendant, gardener, welder, and truck driver. All this in his first 19 years. Jack has varied interests.

Another John Walker is in our midst! Before becoming interested through The New Morality, John graduated from Cumberland Junior College in his home state, Tennessee. John is a sports enthusiast, also, liking baseball and football mostly.

Jack Van Schuyver

Clyde Walters from Covington, Kentucky, has attended University of Kentucky, worked in a bank with Adrian Smith, the basketball player, and spent time in the service with tennis champion, Arthur Ashe. Clyde attempted to apply to Ambassador in 1965 but a letter from the President detoured him into the service for two years.

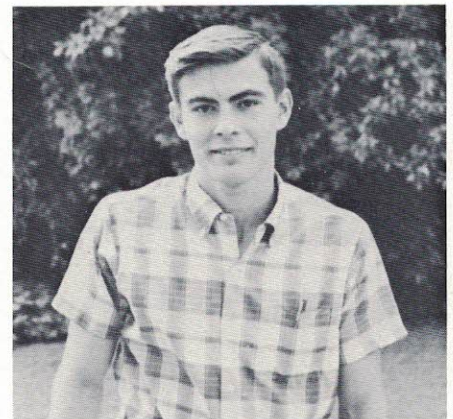

Stan thinks his first few years must have been dull because he cannot remember them at all. Things changed after he got into high school, though. Stan has attended S.E.P., wrestled and played on the baseball team in high school, lettering in both sports..

Jerry Webb who must have been ever-achieving all of his 18 years lists hobbies and recreational activities galore! He's received three bowling trophies, two for first place. Jerry began attending Church in 1966.

Although born in Arkansas, Sebrian Wesley spent most of his life in Denver, Colorado. In high school he excelled at basketball, an ability which landed him several athletic scholarships upon graduation. In college he majored in sociology and graduated with his B. A. in 1963. In his spare time, Sebrian enjoys golf, tennis, reading, and visiting interesting places.

Norman White

Norman White worked as an engineering technician for the Washington State Highway Department, surveying and inspecting highway construction. He enjoys swimming, basketball, hiking, and hunting.

Marsha Whitley is a sports enthusiast. She loves track, volleyball and basketball. She even went to the Texas State track meet twice. Coming right from high school at 18, Marsha expects to be very happy here as she pursues her new life at Ambassador.

Marsha Whitley

The most outstanding feature about Rus is the fact that he has attended four different colleges before coming to Ambassador. And he found time for three years in the service as a brain wave technician. Rus likes photography, classical music and collecting books.

Della Winberry comes to Ambassador right from high school. She enjoys collecting songs, jokes, and friends. She also reads a lot and can cook "fairly well." Della wants to express how happy she is to be at Ambassador College.

Rus Williams

Meet Jarvis Windom! Jarvis goes by two names — Jarvis (of course) or Flash. He hails from Wheatland, Wyoming with a college diploma in photography. He ran a commercial studio before coming to Ambassador.

Linda Wood comes to us from Vermillion, Ohio and brings training and talent in commercial art, a love for horseback riding, interest in swimming, and a devotion for (would you believe) car and motorcycle racing?

Merrie Wyatt lived three years in the Philippines. She comes to Ambassador from Seattle, Washington. She lists her hobbies as riding horses, crawling and making noises. Her best skill is brainstorming. As for interests, Merrie says, "I like almost everything."

One of our married students of Selkirk, Manitoba, Canada, Maurice proudly admits he is a male. He put an exclamation point after it on his interview sheet. He has a degree in agriculture, and for a while, has raised hogs and poultry. His interests include his wife and daughter, swimming and steak dinners. Welcome!
