

THE EVANGELISTS ARE HERE

E. J. H.

Meetings Begin Thursday Evening at 8 o'clock

Read Daniel seven to find what this means.

The meetings will be held in the Boston Block, corner of Raymond and Union Streets, lately occupied by the Mather Commercial Company. It is brilliantly lighted by electricity, seated with chairs, and in every way made cozy and inviting.

The music, under the direction of Prof. D. M. Lawrence of San Francisco, promises to be cultivated, spiritual and thrilling—and everybody should sing. Of course special selections in solos, duets, trios, and quartets will be rendered each evening; but in the choruses all are expected to heartily join.

FIRST SUBJECT—Every one asks, but none seem to know, whether the "world to come" is substance or vapor, whether it is altogether real, or partly imaginary; and to relieve these queries of the anxious, Mr. Hibbard will discuss the subject at 8 o'clock, Thursday evening, under the head of PARADISE RESTORED; What, Where, When Is It To Be?

Following this, and in such order as will each evening form a link in an unbroken chain of prophetic utterances of scripture, from Moses the Meek, to John the Beloved, Evangelists Hibbard and Ballenger will trace the course of church and empire.

The accompanying cuts illustrate scenes as represented to the Prophet Daniel, the first to record for mankind the course of empire and to show the mileposts intervening between Babylon, the empire, and the coming of the Kingdom of Christ.

Through his predictions, and those of John the Revelator, one may approximate the time of the return of Jesus Christ, and the beginning of the Everlasting Kingdom.

This beast represents a kingdom. Read Daniel seven.

Infidels and Skeptics Are Especially Invited to These Lectures

No man (or woman) can remain skeptical after comparing the voice of prophecy with that of history. In fact, the latter is but the complement of the former. Apart, therefore, from the prophecies of holy writ, the true philosophy of history cannot be known. But by these prophetic utterances every page of history is illuminated.

Watch the papers daily for the announcements of definite subjects of discourse, and when a topic interests you, come and hear.
