TRACING THE 'LOST' TRIBES OF ISRAEL THROUGH THE SPREAD OF HEBREW VOCABULARY AND PRONUNCIATION Linguistic Pathways to Discovery

Dear friend,

I am writing this letter to those of you who have been in contact with History Research Projects or Origins of Nations magazine in some way. Some of you have ordered material, others have previously subscribed to Origins of Nations magazine, some have made enquiries and some of you have sent in donations to assist with the lecture series for which we are truly grateful.

You are invited to attend a seminar on the linguistic links which confirm the migrations of the tribes of Israel from the time they left Egypt right down to the present time and their modern identity. This seminar, to be held on Sunday, 10 June 2001, at the Burwood RSL Club, Shaftesbury Road, Burwood will be presented by Professor Terry Blodgett of the University of Southern Utah, Professor of Linguistic Studies and Comparative Languages. This seminar, which is sponsored by History Research Projects, follows on from the highly successful lecture tour in 1998 by Dr Rick Sherrod PhD, and the lecture series presented in 1999 by Melvin Rhodes and Dr. David Lewis PhD, which many of you attended.

The seminar to be presented by Professor Blodgett will trace the four distinct sound shifts which linguistically identify the four significant migrations of the Israelites and where they are today. There will be ample opportunity for Q&A both during and after each lecture.

The material to be covered is set out below:

- 11.00 am    The Four Sound Shifts which Identify the Four Migrations of the Israelites
- 12.30 pm    Lunch break (lunches available at the venue at a reasonable cost)
- 2.00 pm      The Identity of the Cimmerians and Scythians as Israelites
- 3.15 pm      The Israelites' use of Heraldic Symbols for Identification---and the Spread of these Symbols into Europe
- 4.00 pm      Finish & refreshments
(This will include an opportunity to meet the Professor)

This seminar promises to be one of the most intriguing and engaging events ever promoted by History Research Projects and perfectly compliments the seminars presented in previous years. It is a "not to be missed" presentation and admission is absolutely free of charge.

Professor Blodgett has been engaged in the study of linguistics for over 35 years. He has very impressive academic and professional experience in a broad range of fields related to the study of comparative linguistics. These include ancient history, archaeology, middle eastern studies, Hebrew – modern and biblical, English history and language, Gothic, Old Norse, Anglo Saxon, Old High German, Latin, French and Spanish.

In the world of academic pursuit into the identity of “the lost tribes of Israel”, past and present, Professor Blodgett is uniquely qualified to deliver this discourse, verifying by yet another proof that the peoples of Israel are indeed to be found in the modern world.

Don't miss this gripping all-day seminars and once in a lifetime opportunity to hear Professor Blodgett at the following venues:

Finally, I have some further exciting news for you: Steven Collins, author of the acclaimed The Lost Tribes of Israel – Found!, has agreed to present a seminar on the subject in mid-2002. He will also be making available several new, scholarly works which he has recently written. You will be kept fully informed of this important seminar. Donations to assist in our covering the airfare and other expenses for Mr Collins' trip may be sent to the above address.

Yours sincerely,

Craig White, Coordinator
