with a 51-43 upset March 31 of the top-seeded Chicago Fire.

The tournament, held in the Ambassador College gymnasium here March 28 to 31, drew winners of regional tournaments held across the United States several months earlier.

Participating teams, in order of finish from first to last, were the San Gabriel Valley (Calif.) Jets, Chicago (Ill.) Fire, Tacoma (Wash.) Trojans, ngstown (Ohio) Roadrunners, Little Rock (Ark.) Rockets, Amarillo (Tex.) Eagles, Peoria (III.) Pacers and Macon (Ga.) Hornets.

More than 200 teens traveled to Pasadena for the tournament. The teams were supported by cheerlead-ing squads, coaches, ministers and other fans who made the trip.

Following the championship game between San Gabriel Valley and Chicago, an all-tournament team was announced and trophies were awarded to the first- and second-place teams. Other trophics were awarded for the tournament's most valuable player, John Kovalchik of Youngstown, and the best cheerleading squad, Tacoma's.

Macon was awarded a trophy for having outstanding team sportsman-

Mr. Armstrong begins round-the-world trip

PASADENA - Herbert W. Armstrong left here Thursday, April 10, for Tokyo, first stop in a month-long round-the-world trip that will take him to Japan, the Philippines, Egypt, India, Kenya and possibly France and England before he returns to the United States in May. The office of Stanley Rader, vice president for financial affairs and planning, who accompanies Mr. Armstrong on his trips, released the following tentative itinerary for the trip:

The G-II, which carried Mr. Armstrong and his party, was scheduled to arrive in Tokyo April 11. Mr. Armstrong was to conduct a Bible study there April 12.

From Tokyo Mr. Armstrong was to depart for Manila April 15 and from Manila on to Cairo April 20: A testimonial dinner for Mr. Armstrong is planned for April 23 in Cairo, and the next day the group will fly to Bombay, where Mr. Armstrong will address a Lions Club dinner April 24 (The Worldwide News, March 17).

On April 28 Mr. Armstrong hopes to travel to Kenya to make plans for a campaign. He will leave Kenya May 5 for home, possibly via Paris and London.

Travel plans from Kenya are not final. Mr. Armstrong and his party may proceed directly home from Kenva. If they return via Europe, they expect to return home by May

Pocket conferences held

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - The seventh in a series of Church Administration Division (CAD) pocket ministerial conferences was held here April 7 to 9.

According to C. Wayne Cole, CAD director, who conducted the conference here, the meetings were beneficial and he was pleased at the opportunity to meet with the field ministry.

"When I was given the job of heading up CAD, there were many of the church pastors and men in the field who I did not know, having spent so many years serving overseas in Australia," he said. One of the "tremendous" benefits of the conferences has been the building of further unity in the minis-try and the Church, Mr. Cole said. 'We are building better bridges of understanding between the ministry and those of us at headquarters," the director said. "I feel we are building. a deeper awareness and appreciation for each other's service, responsibilities, problems and needs.

Meetings have been held in New Orleans, La.; Mount Pocono, Pa.; Hagerstown, Md.; Cincinnafl, Ohio.; Chicago, III.; and Kansas City, Kan., plus the meeting here. Meetings are planned for before

June 1 for Pasadena, Calif.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Calif.; Denver, Colo.; Orlando Fla.; and Big Sandy, Tex.

'Video pod': new Ambassador concept

PASADENA - A videotape unit designed by Ambassador College personnel resulted in free publicity for the Garner Ted Armstrong television program at the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) convention in Las Vegas, Nev., April 6 to 9. John Lundberg, manager of the Television Department here, said

Commercial Electronics, Inc., the company from which the two handheld cameras on the unit were purchased, rented the unit - which is referred to as a "video pod" - from the college so it could be displayed in a sales booth at the NAB convention. The company also reimbursed expenses for three engineers to attend the show.

"Our concept was to build a selfcontained production facility inside of a common freight pod used by all airlines throughout the world," said Mr. Lundberg, "The pod is normally carried on a one-ton flatbed truck but can be shipped by air anywhere in the world. At your destination you can then rent a flatbed truck, roll on the video pod and travel to your shooting site

He called the concept "unique and said that was why Commercial Electronics wanted to display it.

"We received many favorable comments on the concept and the engineering excellence involved in the workmanship," Mr. Lundberg said.

Magazines to Cover Pod

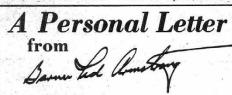

Thousands of fliers showing pic-tures of the unit and the name of the Garner Ted Armstrong program on it were distributed at the show. Several broadcasting magazines will carry articles on the video pod, Mr. Lundberg said.

Dear brethren in God's Church: Greetings! I have been back in Pasadena doing radio and television for several days now following the Days of Unleavened Bread. I was informed by the Business Office that you brethren generously gave of your substance during the Holy Day offerings and that the offerings were up 8 percent for the United States as a whole over the preceding year. THANK YOU for responding so enthusiastically following the comments 1 made in previous "Personals" in the WN and for continuing to hold up our hands in this great Work!

I don't need to tell all those in the northern part of the Midwest or the northeast part of the country how bad the weather was during the Days of Unleavened Bread, or the fact that some services had to be canceled, or that many hundreds in scattered areas were unable to attend due to bad weather. You all know that story. However, as I was leaving East Texas recently I learned there were already more than one million acres under water in parts of Arkansas, East Texas, Louisiana and Tennessee. This flooding is from heavy spring rains and has nothing to do with the unusually heavy snowfall of preceding days and weeks in the upper reaches of the Mississippi drainage area.

Weather Upset

It reminds me of the terrible, wet, late spring of last year and then the short, hot summer which caused drought and additional crop damage later on. These events also call to mind the comments I have made both in personal-appearance campaigns and over the radio and television concerning the upset weather conditions that are even now striking many of the food-growing areas in the United States. As I asked last year, I would once again appreciate all of the pastors of our churches, and any or all of you brethren whose livelihood depends upon farming or who have friends and neighbors who are involved directly in ranching or farming, to give me a brief one- or two-paragraph report of conditions in your area from time to time throughout these coming months. I think if all of us would unitedly collect and disseminate such information we could very greatly stimulate the Plain Truth and even the broadcast because of the grass roots reports from on the spot from the farms of more than a dozen of our very important agricultural states.

Please try to remember this on through the ensuing spring months, and not just now News Bureau and Plain Truth writers will be very happy to receive any personal insight wish to contribute as viewed VOI from your local area. Direct any such contributions to Mr. Gene Hogberg, News Bureau, 300 W. Green St., Pasadena, Calif., 91123.

Better picture In The Worldwide News on Feb. 3, 1975, you had a map and an article on attendance and etc. in the U.S.A. It would be very informative if an article and map could be made up like this of the rest of the parment and round out they are painting to start one soon in Augusta, Maine. I believe that it would give all our members a better picture of the vast area that we have to get the message to yet. Also, could you show how the Sabbath starts at the international dateline and traule around the sloke. This informat starts at the international onenne and travels around the globe. This informa-tion I believe would be appreciated by all our members, coworkers and etc. world-wide for prayer, information and study. Roger F. Kreke Sidney, Ohio

Video Pod

I was very pleased with the reception our new video pod received at the recent National Association of Broadcasters convention in Las Vegas! Several of our Ambassador College men were there to demor strate the pod [see page 1 of this issue].

It is a unique idea totally de veloped and created by our own in-house television technicians, and I am tremendously pleased and proud of their efforts. It is deeply rewarding to see that the quality of our own Television Department is not just equal, but actually superior, to that of even some of the big networks.

And, believe it or not, all three of the major networks expressed unusual interest in the video pod and will very likely want to rent it from us.

Incidentally, Dick Quincer, one of our television producer-directors. with whom I work very closely, had the unusual opportunity of shak hands with President Gerald Ford following the President's address to the

Just a note to say "thank you" for publishing those worthy health-food un-leavened recipes in the March [3 and 17] editions of The Worldwide News.

As a result of experience with this type of recipes, I find the food very delicious and nutritious, particularly those squares (or bars) and cookies whose ingredients are brown sugar, whole-wheat flour, wheat germ, nuts, dates, etc. Most of these recipes are worth a trial. Miss Mary Hamilton Truro, N.S.

Still Have Needs

I still have to tell you that in spite of the many wonderful events in God's Work — the great new growth potential and the much more powerful impact we are having around the world and on our own nation - the income for the year still continues at its negative level. While it is not of crisis proportion, it is certainly seri-ous enough that I must mention it from time to time.

I certainly do thank all of you from the heart for the fine response during the recent Holy Day period, and I hope and pray that we all can put our shoulders to the wheel and keep it up in the coming weeks and months. I will be monitoring closely the effect my letter to the entirety of the membership, coworker and donor lists will have This will no doubt very dramatically affect the income picture one way or the other. I am scheduled to have virtually an all-day meeting with our men in the Financial Division Monday and will have to inform each of our division heads that they must continually monitor their spending to pace it to income and not let any individual budget run ahead of actual income for any month.

I will keep you as always completely informed, and I hope all of you are staying alert and doing as Jesus said in Luke 21:36: "Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass.

We are God's watchmen to the world; we have a great job and a Great Commission to perform. And in these chaotic days in the world as a whole, we need to continually be reminded of the seriousness of our re-sponsibility and the imminence of the Great Tribulation, which looms in the not-too-distant future. By the way, I had the opportunity to view excerpts of the coming one-hour full-color television specials and was very pleasantly surprised myself to see how powerful the Port-dow boxes for some fresh, good eating. I'd like to recommend another vege-table: Swiss chard. Most people do not eat enough greens. Swiss chard is hardy, easy to grow, has a long season and provides many vitamins and minerals, especially witamin A and iron. It also gives an excellent return for the effort. Spinach often goes to seed, but effort. Spinach often goes to seed, but chard keeps on producing until frozen solid. Lights go out for American policy

By Richard G. Growald

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A visi-tor to President Ford's Oval Office noted the electrically lighted globe given the chief executive by his National Security Council staff. It was unlit. The plug had been pulled and the globe was dark.

It fit, perhaps, the state of the world as viewed from the Oval Ofworld as viewed from the Oval Of-fice. The lights were going out all over the globe for traditional postwar American foreign policy. President Ford, up to his deficits in six months of combating domestic woe, was discovering a world of problems perhaps even more difficult to solve than recession and inflation at hor

How Mr. Ford handles the domestic, economic and energy problems may well determine his political fu-ture. How he handles the new state of America's foreign affairs could well determine the nation's future. It's that serious.

Situations as well as personalities that have been constant factors in international affairs for a generation are no more.

Even at home in Washington, Mr Even at home in Washington, Mr. Ford, unique for a post-World War II President, is enduring a Congress that says no to once-unchallenged White House foreign-policy leader-ship. The lawmakers have chopped foreign aid and, most dramatically, thus far rebuffed the President's requests for military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Geography of Woo

A swirl of the 18-inch-diameter transparent Lucite globe in the Oval Office can show the geography of the new foreign scene and the new woe for Mr. Ford:

for Mr. Ford: The Middle East — The once-magic touch of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger failed to produce Israeli-Egyptian progress toward peace. Mr. Ford himself says this failure makes war more likely and criticizes the Israelis, once the almost unquestioned ally, for inflexibility and shortsightedness. Egypt, so re-cently wooed by U.S. diplomacy, calls for solidarity with even radical Arab regimes. Portugal — Only two years ago the only U.S.-European ally to aid

America's emergency jet airlift of arms to Israel during the latest Mid-dle East war is now in the hands of left-wing military officers. Portugal may even open its strategic Azores to the Russian naval forces once tracked by U.S. bases on the Atlantic islands. Indochina — The domino theory is proving its existence, with Cam-bodia all but communist controlled, South Vietnam falling under communist control and Thailand saying it wants U.S. bases out.

Turkey — This once almost bit-terly anti-Soviet eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military alliance openly questions the value of its American ties because of the Congress-dictated cutoff of weapon supplies following the Turk-ish invasion of Cyprus. The Russians are wooing Ankara. U.S. servicemen stationed on bases in Turkey are advised strongly not to go into the streets in uniform. NATO — Britain is cutting its forces still again. France continues to keep its forces out of NATO control. The Dutch are debating whether to even keep their military. The West Germans are grumbling about having to pay so much for so many in the alli

Russia — The state of the U.S.-Soviet detente has been in guestion since the Soviets rejected a month ago the major new trade treaty with America, blaming Congress for using the document to try to step up Jewish emigration from Russia

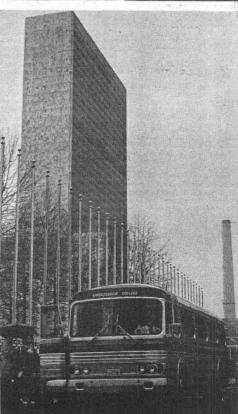

China — Since the Kissinger visit in December, when Mr. Ford was invited to Peking later this year, internal Peking politics and quiet diplomatic skirmishing with Wash-ington over the status of Taiwan have made chop suey of the more optimis-tic views of Washington's new relations with the Chinese

Problems Elsewhere

Other problems abound. Latin America still feels ignored. India has never been noticeably louder than now in the anti-American phrases of its politicians. The Philippines is studying whether it should stick to its U.S. military alliance. Even Canada is doing its own thing in such matters as oil.

President Ford does not talk so much in public about how America should wield its strength in world power politics; rather he struggles to justify to Americans the need to exert leadership abroad. "It is not going to be a retreat," he says. "It is going to be how we best utilize our resources to protect our own interests and maintain our world leadership."

By Paul Meek HRIC Assistant Director

PASADENA — Job hunting is go-ing to be extremely difficult this summer, say placement officers across the United States.

Are you a student seeking your first summer employment? Are you a college student looking for interest-ing work in new and enchanting places?

The word from job-placement authorities: Start looking now. In fact, government jobs require filing of applications early in the year, ei-ther by Jan. 25, Feb. 15 or April 15, depending upon the type of job. It may indeed be already too late for some jobs, but other opportunities may be available. What is important for all seeking summer employment is to keep in mind that jobs are where you find them. Don't be discouraged by peo-ple who say, "Don't bother looking; there are no jobs available," or, "I've looked for a whole month and never found a trace of work."

The U.S. Department of Labor of-fers this advice for finding summer work: "Tell everyone you know friends, relatives, neighborhood, businessmen — that you are in the market for summer work. Read newspaper want ads; watch bulletin boards and factory and store win-dows for help-wanted signs; and check with firms that have the sort of jobs you want. Remember, a job won't come to you. You have to go after it."

after it." Further, according to an article on summer jobs in Money magazine, March, 1975, don't hesitate to "hit up your dad or uncle." Many dads and other relatives are able to pass the word along that they personally know students wanting to work.

Jobs Are Available

Five million people between the ages of 14 and 21 will be looking for work this summer. Forget it. You are interested in only one finding work, namely you. Narrowing the field to one leaves job possibilities open to many. But remember, it depends upon a plan that, in the words of one counselor, is "imaginative and persistent

Following is a partial list of sum-mer jobs available, taken from a pub-lication called *Manpower Adminis*tration 1974. Those in italics are some of the best opportunities:

The preceding list is only a suggestion. You may be the exception, such as a medical student from the University of Pittsburgh who will be pitch-ing for the New York Yankees again this summer for more than $50,000.

feet above a truck in an elevated bucket. The truck was parked at the edge of a 35-foot cliff. Suddenly the truck began to roll toward the edge. Mr. Noy jumped. But he mis-judged — and missed the top of the cliff. In all, he fell 55 feet onto jagged rocks at the bottom of a steep incline.

His back and hip were broken so badly that his leg was turned in the wrong direction. And he suffered severe cuts.

Excruciating Pain

At the hospital the doctor showed him an X ray of the ball of his hip, which was completely severed from the thigh bone and still in the pelvis socket. Mr. Noy was immediately put in a cast and traction. He lay in excruciating pain.

Mrs. Noy tried to call ministers in Rockford and Chicago but was unable to reach them. She finally lo-cated Tom Tullis, a local elder of the Iowa City, Iowa, church. He sent an anointed cloth, and the next day Karl Beyersdorfer, pastor of the Water-

A STORY FOR CHILDREN By Shirley Johnson

> Jim stuck his head out of his window. "Is there a chance some fish will come up the ditch from the creek?" He leaned out further to try to get a glimpse of a flashing fin.

Busy with his driving, Grandpa did not reply. The road was soggy where gravel was thin and Grandpa gunned it for the bridge.

Jim saw a gap in the graveled track where the road met the bridge floor. The rain had washed out part of the approach to the bridge. Grandpa saw it the same instant Jim did and he tromped hard on the brake

Jim pitched out the open window, hurtled through space and splashed head-first into the ditch. As the cold water closed over him he thrust out hands that rammed into gooey mud. He struggled to get a slippery footing and managed to flounder up out of the water. Plodding like a hippopotamus to the sloping bank he shook his head to clear his ears and choking. He had never seen Grandpa so angry. "Sorry? James, if there hadn't been Releasing Jim, Grandpa turned on his heel. "When you stop dripping you can get in the car and we'll go back home."

Grandpa got in the car, slammed the door and waited. Jim tried to wring out his pant legs. His shoes sloshed and he walked to the car and he took them off and dumped out mud and water.

Major made questioning sounds from the rear seat as Jim opened the car door at last, got in and fastened his seat belt. "Okay," he said.

What Happened Last year

Grandpa turned to look at him. One cheek glistened where a tear had run down. "Our neighbor was killed last year at a country crossing. Two cars met at the intersection. Not much damage was done to the cars, but he didn't have his seat belt fastened and he was thrown into the field. It wasn't muddy that

Clearing mud from King James' version

The writer of this first of a two-part series, Jim Thompson, is a 22-year-old aspiring free-lance writer from Holton, Kan. A member of the Worldwide Church of God, Mr. Thompson holds a degree in linguistics from the University of Kansas and plans to write a book on translations of the Rihle

He says he doesn't intend "to make any pretense of being com-prehensive in this article. It is merely a set of clues and examples to help the brethren better understand their King James Bible, especially since it is the one that nearly all of us — myself in-cluded — use as our basic studyreference-prayer-meditation Bible.''

By Jim Thomps

The King's English of 1611 is as clear as mud to most of us. Yet the King James Version is the most popular translation of the Bible in the English-speaking world. Most of you use it as your study Bible, even though you may use other translations occasionally. Maybe you just don't like to use sev eral translations all the time, but prefer the familiar, if not always under-standable, King James (or Authorized) Version.

that case, you may find this short explanation of basic differences between KJV language and modern English helpful.

In many cases individual words have different meanings now from those they had in the early 17th century. To make matters worse, no clear spelling standard was recog-nized then, though in the KJV itself the spelling is fairly regular. So here are two problems that trouble the Modern reader:
 A familiar word may be unrecognizable because of its spelling. • Or the word may have under-gone a semantic change over the centuries.

'E' Before 'I'?

Some editions of the KJV have the word flotes in II Chronicles 2:16. Today we spell it "floats." In Mat-thew 5:40 Christ instructs us to relinquish our clokes, but today some people may wear cloaks instead. Remember the i-before-e-except-after-c rule? Well, in the Bible i may come before e even after c when it comes to ceilings, as you can see for yourself in I Kings 6:15. A form of this word is used as a verb in Jeremiah 22:14.

A slave who wished to stay on beyond his allotted seven years had his ear run through with an aul (Exodus 21:6). It is no longer considered good form to treat your help in this manner, but even if you did you would instead use an awl. Come, and I shall shew thee how some have lien among pots in days of yore.

Unfortunately, as I mentioned be-fore, spelling is not the only prob-lem. If I were to tell you that I fain would have holpen thee anon sith I did hear a ruinous bruit against thine exemplary conversation, you might wonder whether I was sincere in wishing to communicate to you. Or if you are more kindly disposed you might assume I was a foreigner or something. Yet these words that tend to cloud my meaning in the preceding sen-tence are used in the KJV Bible.

New Meanings

Most of us realize that the word conversation as used in the KJV was intended to mean one's whole con-Intended to behavior, rather than just speech. The word let is sometimes used in the sense of to "hinder" or "prevent" (see Romans 1:13 and Isaiah 43:13) rather than "allow." Yet prevent is used to mean "pre-cede" or "come first" (I Thes-salonians 4:15, Matthew 17:25 and Psalms 88:13). We might tend to take the phrase take no thought in a literal sense, meaning to ignore, but in both the original Greek and in 1611 Enits it meant something more like "don't be anxious." Then there is rid. In Genesis 37:22, for example, it means to "save" or "deliver." There are other words that you seldom see or hear used except in the Bible. Most of these words are in your dictionary, marked as either aryour outcomary, marked as either ar-chaic or obsolete. The word fain means either "preferably," as in Job 27:22, or "gladly," as in Luke 15:16. Anon, meaning "at once," is found in Matthew 13:20 and Mark 1:30. In Ezekiel 35:6 is a word that is found only once in the KJV. This word might puzzle you. It is sith, and it means "since." You will find that a "bruit" is spoken of in Jeremiah 10:22 and Nahum 3:19, which refers to a "rumor" or "report."

If you find a passage in the Bible that uses words in an unfamiliar way, look up some of them in a dictionary The words in question might have an archaic or obsolete definition that you were not aware of. If you do not have another translation handy, you could check Strong's Exhaustive Concordance to find the meaning of the problem word. You could look up the original word in the Hebrew and Greek dictionaries in the back of the concordance, using the number given in the "Main Concor-dance."

Look It Up

However, Strong's has another feature that may aid your study. This feature that may aid your study. Inis is the "Comparative Concordance," which follows the "Main Concor-dance" and appendix. To use this feature, look up the problem word in the "Main Concordance," then locate the verse in question. If the oc-currence of that word in that verse is followed by an asterisk, then the Re-vised Version (RV) translated it dif-Ferently. In that case, you then turn to the "Comparative Concordance" sec-tion and look up your word and verse

ATTENTION: PROSPECTIVE AMBASSADOR STUDENTS

The College Board, which administers the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), has scheduled Sunday administrations of the SAT as follows:

June 29, 1975 (U.S. only) Oct. 12, 1975 (California and Texas only) Nov. 2, 1975 (U.S. only) Dec. 7, 1975 Jan. 25, 1976 April 4, 1976 June 6, 1976 (U.S. only)

If you are applying to Ambassador College, Pasadena or Big Sandy, and have not taken the SAT, you should register to take it at the earliest possible date.

Ambassador College's identification numbers are 4010 for Pasadena and 6029 for Big Sandy.

You should register for the SAT at least six weeks ahead of the test date. Students who wish to register for a Sunday administration should follow the directions in the College Board Admissions Training Program student bulletin, which is available from high-school counselors.

For registration forms and further information. write to: College Board, Box 592, Princeton, N.J., 08540, or College Board, Box 1025, Berkeley, Calif., 94701.

to see how the RV translated it. For example, take the word con-versation of I Peter 3:1. In the "Main Concordance" you will find: "3:1 be won by the c. of the wives*." Seeing the asterisk, you turn to the "Com-parative Concordance," and on page 48 you find the following entry under I Peter: '3:1 "behaviour.' This means that in the RV of the Bible, the Greek word was translated "be-haviour" instead of "conversation." This gives an entirely different outlook on the meaning of the verse, for it actually says that husbands may be won to the truth by the behavior or conduct of their believing wives, rather than by their words or "conversation." Several strategies may be used to make sense out of the KJV when it uses words that are unfamiliar or fa-miliar words in an unfamiliar way. If you use the KJV to a large extent, it may be a good idea to go back over this article and mark in your own Bible the modern meaning or usage of the examples pointed out.

Another aspect of King James English — grammar — is scheduled for the next Worldwide News.

The out-come of the game was not deter-mined until the final quarter, with San Gabriel coming out on top 51-43. Presenting the Trophies

After the game Wayne Cole, direc-tor of church administration, presented the tournament trophies

First-place trophy went to San Ga-briel Valley. Chicago South received the runner-up trophy. A trophy for the best cheerleading squad was awarded to Tacoma. The inners of this trophy were chosen by the cheerleaders themselves; each squad cast one vote. John Kovalchik of the Youngstown team was recipient of the Most Valuable Player award, which was sponsored by The Portfolio. Ambassador's student newspaper. He averaged 24-7 points per game as te led his team to fourth place.

Named to an all-fournament team were Walter Dickinson and Melvin Tims of San Gabriel Valley, Lance Cosgrove of Tacoma, Terry Bush of Peoria, Chuck Bond of Macon and Sylvester Washington of Little Rock. A trophy for outstanding team sportsmanship was awarded to the Macon team. Each basketball team and group of cheerleaders received a participants' trophy. Each player and cheerleader will receive a certificate of participation After the trophies were awarded, another sock hop was held in the gym, with an Ambassador dance band called Etc. providing the music. Teams began heading home the next day. The Chicago delegation had to delay its return trip until April 3 because of heavy snow in Chicago.

During the finals Monday evening Mr. Cole had announced that the man responsible for much of the planning and organization of this first national tournament, Jim Thornhill, had just been appointed new national youth coordinator by Garner Ted Arm-strong. Mr. Thornhill, who is on Mr. Armstrong's personal staff, will be assisted by Mike Blackwell of Church Administration and Ron Dick, another of Mr. Armstrong's staffers. Mr. Cole also announced that other

Appointment to Post Post

NEW SARPY, La. - Explorer Post 71 of New Orleans, La., spon-sored a sock hop here March 1. About 50 teens and adults danced to records and a country band. The appointment of Charley Mc-Leod Jr. as new post president was announced. John A. Cole.

Olympia Outfits

OLYMPIA, Wash. - Olympia's new Masonic Temple was the setting March 9 for the church's first style show. At 2 p.m. guests were seated among displays of sewing accessories and materials and an abundance of flowers.

Mrs. Nancy Greer welcomed everyone and introduced Minda Mayfield, moderator for the show, who modeled her apparel while Mrs. Greer described it. Then Miss Mayfield introduced a teenager, Lynn Allworth, to allow parents of toddlers to bowl. Lanes were reserved from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., so there was no competition from the public.

The session ran for 16 weeks Then a banquet was held and trophies were presented as follows:

Most improved player — Men: Charles White, 14 pins, and Ream Robertson, 14 pins. Women: Mrs. Edna Myrick, 15 pins. High-game handicap — Men:

Jim Haeffele, 243. Women: Mrs.

The first-place team also received a trophy with the team name en-graved on it, to be passed down each year to the winning team. Mrs. Al Allworth.

Tractor Tubes

CONCORD, N.H. - The church here joined the Montpelier, Vt., members at the home of Elliot Bearse in Springfield, Vt., for a snow party

Feb. 23. Participants rode on sleds, plastic and wooden toboggans and inner tubes from tractor tires. Also, snow mobiles from Skidoos to a Bolens Diablo were maneuvered through thick brush and over stone walls

Most of the winter enthusiasts here said they enjoyed the party even though the day turned cloudy and the wind blew fiercely in the afternoon.

Children's Library

TOLEDO, Ohio - Each Sabbath the children of the church here operate their own library before services. The idea for a children's library had been brought up, but the kind of books to include posed a problem. When a bookstore offered the Arch Book series of children's books, the answer was found. A donation by a member, Florence Hoby, made it possible to buy all 10 sets.

Adult leaders from Cub Scout Pack 274 — Mrs. Thomas Herzberg, Mrs. Richard Laux and Mrs. Al Yeager — helped the boys prepare the books and cards.

Waltzes to Jive

WINNIPEG, Man. - Entertainment was introduced by emcee Ar-nold Solleveld during a "Better-Half Social" Feb. 16 put on by Winnipeg East. Glen V. White, pastor, narrat-ed a story about two young people meeting and eventually getting mar-ried while "Ain't She Sweet," "If I Were a Carpenter" and a song com-posed by Nestor Guspodarchuk, "Loving Ain't Easy," were sung. The Ambassadors, a local band, had a full dance floor every time it played tunes that ranged from waltz-to jive. Owen B. Murphy auctioned off "Love Is . . ." posters that had set the mood for the gala. Ken Fedirchuk.

put on a variety show in a Belfast theater Feb. 8.

This is the second year the teenagers and young adults have performed before relatives and friends. This year a group of people from a reha-bilitation center was also entertained. About 150 nonmembers were in the audience of more than 300. With the help of older members and children the young people put on a two-hour show that displayed the talents of performers from 3 to 63.

The theme of the show was Around the World and included numbers from Japan, France, Austra-lia and Scotland. An unusual feature of the show was a bedouin dance performed by six young ladies. The church choir, with a medley of songs from around the world, brought the show to an end. After a celebration drink of champagne backstage and reports from the audience such as "10 times better than last year" and "really great," the cast went home. Hilary Murphy.

Bull Fills Bill

WASHINGTON - The weather forecaster promised freezing rain for Feb. 16, but the Bull Roast Committee here promised plenty of roast beef and fun. The church believed the latter and about 250 turned out.

Although the weatherman's prediction also came true, no one paid any attention. Indoor games were provided for the children and less hardy, and the rest played touch football as the bull roasted.

About midaftemoon the bull was ready and was served with potluck brought by the members and bever-ages served by the church. Roger Crawford was chef.

After the food came square danc-ing to the Imperials, a band of Washington-church members, and games ranging from a chess tournament for preteens to arm wrestling.

The church here feels it has the recipe for a successful bull roast and passes it along to any interested:

Using about one pound per person, including children, of top-grade boned meat, cut it into 10-pound (See WRAP-UP, page 13)

Baste with a 50-50 mixture of Burgundy wine and corn oil and about one cup soy sauce and one-half cup Worcestershire sauce. Sprinkle with an herb mixture of garlic nowcoarse-ground black pepper, dried parsley, onion powder and thyme. Wrap in foil and cook over a bed of red-hot coals for two to three hours. Use a meat thermometer to see if the meat is done.

Remove the foil and baste twice more while allowing the outside to char slightly. The wood for the fire is important and should be wellseasoned, dry oak. About two pickup loads will suffice. While the church has served roasted ears of corn, baked potatoes, etc., members have found the potluck meals are best. Keg beer tops it off.

Bull roasts are excellent as socials during snowy winter weather, espe-cially if an inside area is available for eating and indoor games. C.C. Williams.

Houston Singers

HOUSTON, Tex. — The Houston North church was host of a sing-along for all three area churches March 15. Three hundred fifty people attended.

The brethren somehow sensed they had gotten more than their money's worth when they saw the musicians gather on the bandstand. Leading the group was Harold Rhodes, pastor of Houston North, as lead singer. Mr. Rhodes was backed by Cleve Nickerson, Jim Van Schuyver and Gill Rogers on rhythm guitar. Charles Stephens, a professional musician, played steel-guitar solos.

Playing the piano was Jack Haas. the "king of country piano," for-merly of Ozone's, a nightclub.

The audience seemed to enjoy it when Mr. Rhodes waded out into the children's section with mike in hand to allow kids to try their hand at sing-ing. Most of the children were shy, but Mr. Rhodes found one 4-year-old boy who belted out a few bars of "Tiny Bubbles." He later wandered up to the bandstand and asked if he could sing another. Ice Hits Des Moines

DES MOINES, Iowa - One of bes Monves, how — one of the worst ice storms in years struck lowa the first day of Unleavened Bread, March 27. But attendance was cut by only 50 members, who were snowbound in northern areas. Up to an inch of ice coated utility wires. Winds snapped wires and toppled telephone poles. Damage was estimated at $12 million, with 70,000 homes without power and heat. Days later homes were still without electricity. Services began late because elec-tricity and heat were off. After services was a potluck meal.

The church prayed that electricity would be restored before members went home so they could see a movie of Herbert W. Armstrong's ac-tivities. The lights came on as many people were about to leave. Larry Grove.

MARENGO, Iowa - Albert F. DeGood, 63, died after a long illness.

His mother, Mrs. Nora Wanamaker, is a member of the Worldwide Church of God.

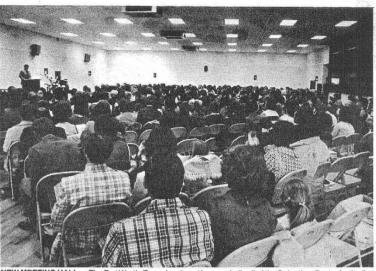

We would like to gratefully acknowledge all contributions (of a journalistic nature, that is, though the others don't go unnoticed) to The Worldwide News. We would like to be in a position to acknowledge each, but we are not.

Therefore . . .

We would like to remind you of our general policy as outlined by Garner Ted Armstrong in his "Personal," Vol. I, No. 1: "As with any newspaper, we have to ask that if such information [written contributions in the form of poetry, musical lines, comments, ideas, etc.] is sent to the paper, you do not send us the original, and never send us anything you want returned! This would add too much of a burden. require us to hire far more personnel than we are able, and result in a great deal of additional cost!"

The above-stated policy saves literally thousands of dollars per year — savings that are reflected through what we feel is a nominal subscription donation. We ask that you bear with us in keeping costs down.

NEW MEETING HALL --- The Fort Worth, Tex., church met in a new hall called the Swingtime Center for the first time on the last day of Unleavened Bread, April 2. The hall is used for square dancing seven nights a week. Because the center is larger than the church's old meeting place, members now meet in one noon service rather than moming and afternoon services as they had for more than six years. Attendance on the Holy Day was 489. Mark Salyer is pastor. [Photo by Johnny R. Bradford]

EL CENTRO, Calif. — A first — distributing literature in both English County Fair, held here Feb. 28 to March 9. About 2 percent of the 141,000 people who attended the fair were reached, according to Randy Stidham. San Diego ministerial assistant. who was in charge of literature distribution.

Few were frequenting the booth, manned by the San Diego church, until a sign was erected that read "Literatura Gratuita," which in Spanish means "Free Literature." A large part of the people of and near here in southernmost California, on the Mexican border, are bilingual or speak only Spanish. Literature given included 807 pieces in Spanish and 1,091 in En-glish. Booklets most often requested in Spanish included those on marin Spanish included those on mar-riage, smoking, alcoholism and child rearing. Eighty copies of the Plain Truth were given out and 40 sub-scriptions received. Those that at-tracted the least interest of visitors to the Spanish booth were Why Were You Born?, How to Get a Good Job and one about Ambassador College.

In English 1,091 pieces of litera-ture were distributed, 125 request cards filled out and 75 Plain Truths issued. Top requests were A Whale of a Tale, A Theory for the Birds, Di-nosaurs Before Adam, Fishy Stories and The Plain Truth About Child and The Plain Truth About Child Rearing. Those who assisted Mr. Stidham included his wife Bobbi; Tom Ivi-cevic; James Friddle, the pastor who supervised the entire program; Mr. Friddle's wife Marge; Steve Friddle; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ivicevic. The four who remained through-

The four who remained throughout 12 days of the fair stayed in a tent and a trailer house furnished by Dan Edelman of Escondido that was parked in a commercial campground.

Mr. Stidham reported that a fine personal relationship developed with persons operating surrounding booths, particularly a representative of the State Department of Rehabili-tation, who requested 50 copies of the booklet on alcoholism to use in his work.

'Video pod': new concept

(Continued from page 1) way into every television and radio station throughout the United States, Canada and several European coun-tries," he said. "I really have no idea how much this free publicity is worth, but the irony of it all is that we are being paid for it."

The television crew videotaped part of the Church's National Teen-age Basketball Tournament here March 31 and edited 25 minutes of the games into a tape that was played continuously at the convention to illustrate the unit's capabilities. Parts of the pod were constructed by departments at Ambassador.

The major U.S. television net-works (NBC, CBS and ABC), some Canadian stations, three foreign governments and many television-pro-duction facilities were interested in renting or purchasing a video pod, Mr. Lundberg said.

Rent-a-Pod

"Our idea is to rent out the video pod to other broadcasters whenever it is not in use by Mr. GTA," Mr. Lundberg said. "The Television Department hopes to be able to cover our initial investment cost — research and development - and make the lease payments on the equipment by renting out the video pod. The response has been much greater than anticipated, and we may have underestimated the amount of potential revenue. The Work could receive $1,250- to $1,750-per-day income from rental fees

'The Work, of course, is not in a position to manufacture and sell mo bile television units, but we could sell the patent and technical know how to a manufacturer on a royalty basis. We were approached by sev-eral manufacturers who are interest-ed in marketing the video pod."

Mr. Lundberg said the greatest immediate benefit to the Work will "the flexibility and coverage we can provide Mr. GTA on location virtually anywhere in the world.

"Another benefit of renting out our video pod will be the free transportation around the United States and to other nations when we rent the pod. We will have to require at least two of our people to accompany the video pod at all times to insure against damage or misuse. Once some other company pays the fees for freight and transportation, we would be in a position to obtain cover footage at that particular location for a GTA program at very little additional cost ¹¹ cost.

NEW CONCEPT — John Lundberg, left, explains the operation of the "video pod," a self-contained videotape unit designed by Ambassador College personnel, to John Almen, product manager for the Ampex Corp., at the National Association of Broadcasters convention in Las Vegas, Nev., held April 6 to 9. Several firms are interested in marketing the pod. The unit, designed to add flexibility to the Garner Ted Armstrong television program, can be airfreighted anywhere. Ambassador College departments helped produce parts of the pod.

PASADENA - Jill Gustafson, PASADENA — Jill Gustatson, wife of Chicago Southwest pastor Carl Gustafson, was released from Huntington Memorial Hospital here April 11 following an automobile accident March 28 that broke her pelvic girdle. The Gustafsons were in Pasadena with the Chicago Fire basketball team during the Church's National Teenage Basketball Tournament when the crash occurred. Mr. Gustafson, who received only minor injuries when the car in which the couple was riding was hit broad-side, reports that after initial X rays doctors feared Mrs. Gustafson had sustained internal damage. "But after Mr. [Wayne] Cole anointed her and doctors took X rays again, there was nothing," said Mr. Gustafson. Although she can now walk and is out of the hospital, Mrs. Gustafson will be bedridden for another two while be bedridden for another two weeks. But she hopes to be com-pletely recovered in three months. "Doctors tell me," said Mr. Gus-tafson, "the breaks were clean and she should have no future problems. No permanent damage was done." Until Mrs. Gustafson is ready to be moved they will stay in Pasadena. Then they will go to Laramie, Wyo., where Mrs. Gustafson's parents are keeping their children. In the meantime Randy Dick,

Washington, D.C., elder, is filling in for Mr. Gustafson in Chicago. Mrs. Gustafson "has been getting Press Club in Washington. "I'm very excited about the trip," Mr. Faulkner said. "Gene and I hope to get concrete information for the P7 as well as some good pictures."

PASADENA - Walter W. Rupp, college German instructor here, reports that an Ambassador College summer session in German will be offered in Bad Oeynhausen, West Germany, this year. Three three-semester-hour courses are to be offered. Regular admission to Ambassador is not required for admission to the summer program.

Though time is short, those who are interested may request an applica-tion form and other information by writing or phoning the Foreign Lan-guage Department at Ambassador College here, Mr. Rupp said.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Jerry Sandoval, 18-year-old son of local elder Delfino Sandoval, continues to recover from injuries sustained in a car wreck Jan. 12.

Although doctors had said that be-cause of spinal injuries he would never walk again, he can now stand up and sit down and maneuver him-self using a brace on his feet and a walker or hand crutches, his father "His spirits are way up," Mr. Sandoval said. Jerry can play pool and bowl from his wheelchair. He can even lift weights; he can press about 125 pounds. Jerry entered a rehabilitation center here March 17 and now comes home on weekends. Mr. Sandoval said Jerry may be released from the center April 25. In answer to a request by Jerry,

JERRY SANDOVAL AND PARENTS Gamer Ted Armstrong visited him April 5 and spoke later that day at Sabbath services here. The congregation applauded when it was mentioned that Jerry was in the audience," Mr. Sandoval said. Officials at Jerry's high school have decided to let him graduate with his class in May because of his high grade-point average, Mr. Sandoval said. He said Jerry's goal is to walk across the stage to receive his diploma

His address is 806 Crestview, San Antonio, Tex., 78228. Despite his injuries, he remains in high spirits, Mr. Sandoval said, and his zeal and drive remain."
