HERALDRY

The Symbols of Israel

The Heraldry of Israel

The following table contains fact, and not-so fact. I have been compiling this table for many years. I'm afraid that some of the references have been lost. Anything in parentheses is not sure information. However, the Signs of the Zodiac were found in Joseph Seiss' "Gospel in the Stars." The Emblems were taken from E.Raymond Capt's, "Missing Links Discovered in Assyrian Tablets." As for the other listings, I have come across lists that don't agree with each other. I even have one list of Zodiac signs that don't agree. So what's new, huh? I'm not really tryng for absolute Truth here, anyway. I think it should be known that these kinds of things even exist. I leave the reader to do the "deep" research. You might want to look at the heraldy of the United States in a little more detail as it applies to the Great Seal.

THE SYMBOLS OF ISRAEL

Tribe	Sign	Color	Stone	Became	Emblem	Waiting
Rueben	Aquarius	Orange	Odem	France	Man/Water	Waiting
Simeon	Pisces	Red/Orange	Sapphire	Silurians (Senones)	Sword/Gate
Levi	Pisces	Red/Orange	Sapphire	(Jews)
Judah	Leo	Blue	Nophek	Juti (Jews)	Lion/3 Lions

The Great Seal of the United States

Heraldry is a very interesting subject, but when applied to the Lost tribes material it can be amazing. Most of the symbols used by the tribes of Jacob's descendents are derived from the blessings and prophecies that were given to his sons in Genesis 49. For instance, the Wolf is the primary symbol of the tribe of Benjamin (verse 27, "Benjamin shall raven, ["eat voraciously"] as a wolf). Reuben's two symbols are a Man and Water. Judah's symbols are a single Lion and three Lions respectively. These may be resting or rampant. Although Joseph's two sons Ephraim and Manasseh are not listed, we know from other sources that Ephraim and Manasseh each had two symbols. Ephraim used the Ox primarily and the Unicorn was his secondary symbol. Manasseh's primary symbol is an Olive Branch, while his second symbol is a Bundle of Arrows. It must be remembered the Manasseh is the thirteenth tribe. Ephraim moved into Joseph's place and Manasseh was added to the twelve. If one gives the briefest look at the arms of England, it will be seen to contain a shield with a rampant Lion on the left and a Unicorn on the right. Other symbols such as David's Harp are included within the shield.

The United States, being founded as a permanent home by the Pilgrim's (of the tribe of Manasseh), should reflect the emblems of that tribe. It will be found that the Great Seal of the United States contains ten features of thirteen. And given that some sixteen drafts, over a time period of 159 years through which the seal was constructed, it makes coincidence impossible as an explanation for those 13's. I know that the easy answer to the fact of all these thirteens is that there were thirteen original colonies, but this surface explanation doesn't fit all the evidence. When the facts of the United States and the Great Seal are viewed in the context of the whole Lost Tribes teaching, it obviously fits like it belonged. The "coincidence" of there being thirteen colonies doesn't add a whit to the total picture unless it is taken to be part of the LT material. Finally in 1935 the final die was cut for the seal that we see on the one dollar bill today.

The obverse, or front, side of the Seal as proposed by Thomas Jefferson was to show the Israelites being led by the Pillar of Cloud and of Fire. Benjamin Franklin suggested the event of Pharaoh's drowning in the Red Sea. The Harp of David was included in three early designs, while the number of olives and leaves did not settle to thirteen each until late in the nineteenth century.

Although Congress had appropriated the funds (1884) for the "obverse and reverse of the seal of the United States", the Reverse Seal was not cut. Five times the "acts of Congress" relating to the Reverse Seal were ignored; 1782, 1789, 1833, 1884, and 1902. It took 153 years for the complete process!

E. Raymond Capt, in his booklet, "Our Great Seal" says: The Great Seal given to our country, after years of laborious heraldic and symbolic study, reveals our true national origin and destiny. The Obverse face is Israel in the Old Testament; The Reverse face is our race under the New Covenant. Each face is a masterly harmony of all that is potent in symbolism and prophecy. It was originated and adopted by men who recognized the overshadowing presence of the Great Architect of the Universe and submission to His will as revealed in the Scriptures and the Laws of Nature. They planned a government in conformity to His great Plan. They recognized that America's greatest task was to go toward the goal of the Plan -- the eventual establishment of the Kingdom of God on earth.

Their hands were guided by another, for seemingly they did not fully know themselves to be of the Tribe of Manasseh. ("Blindness in part is happened to Israel" - - Romans 11:25). Yet, wittingly or unwittingly, they used all the national emblems of ancient Israel as America's emblems also. Our Obverse Seal sums up the whole of the Old World history of Israel, whose boundaries were set at the very beginning according to the number of the sons of Jacob, and the Lord as an "Eagle" was his express guardian and "Shield." Unsealed "Truth," borne by the Eagle's beak illuminated the way of the "people saved by the Lord." The blessings and the curses were plainly set before them in the "Olive-Branch" and the "Bundle of Arrows." The Constellation of Stars, signifies perpetual endurance. The Almighty God himself swore by them as such. (Daniel 12:3)

13'S FOUND IN THE GREAT SEAL

1. 13 stars in the crest
2. 13 stripes in the shield
3. 13 olive leaves
4. 13 olives
5. 13 arrows (some like to include the 13 feathers of the arrows)
6. 13 letters in Annuit Coeptis
7. 13 letters in E Pluribus Unum
8. 13 courses of stone in the Pyramid
9. 13 X 9 dots in the divisions around the crest.

ASSYRIAN TABLETS

KEY TO DISCOVERING THE LOST TRIBES

THE ASSYRIAN TABLETS: HARD EVIDENCE

The Net has been called the information highway, for good reason. That's all that's on it. Information. Information is power, right? God has ALL the information, that's why He's ALL powerful. Isn't information the thing that we seek constantly, all our lives? We're taking in information every waking minute. Eat, sleep, gather information. And then we die.

You'd think that such an important part of our existence would be treated in a much less cavalier manner, however. You'd think that our first priority in life would be information-proving. No one wants to act on MIS information, do they? It'd be a hell of a life to be acting on any and ALL information that came our way. We don't want to act on information that will not get us to our goal. We strive for accurate information.

We want evidence that substantiates the information we've received. When we've gathered enough evidence, we form a belief. It's our beliefs, that found our actions. Beliefs are what we act on.

The Christian walk depends on a strong belief in God's reality. Christians say that the Bible is God telling them about Himself; what He wants, things He's said and done, things He's said will happen. But unless the Bible can be somehow verified, it's no more than any other book of stories. And being such, the things that can't be verified, like heaven, God's constant Presence, and His provision, can hold no interest.

Our task, then, is to find as much verifiable evidence as possible, to help us act on those UN verifiable concepts. And we can't verify the Bible with itself, can we? Just because the same event is prophesied in two different places doesn't make it true. Objective evidence is always best. When we're sure we couldn't have made up something, we have more confidence in it.

Of course, the best places to check prophecy are history and archeology. On another page you find the Behistun Rock; a wonderful tie to the Lost Tribes. More than a century before Darius the Great commissioned Behistun rock, however, the Assyrians were watching their borders. Their enemies the Urartians and the Medes may start gathering an army. The Assyrians wanted to know everything that was going on with their foes. The border guards, and spies, would send back to the King, reports on the movements and activities occurring in the neighboring countries.

A good king always keeps a library of books and letters, etc. In 1847, Sir Henry Layard, uncovered the Assyrian capitol city of Ninevah. The Royal Palace contained over 23,000 clay tablets with everything from business deals to spy reports from the borders. It is these letters that become the transition point in prophecy fulfillment. Like Behistun Rock, these reports reveal the names used by the Assyrians for the different groups of Israelites they had placed as a buffer state between them and their enemies. With these names in hand we can trace these people and check the prophecies about them.

The "Royal Letters" are dated about 707 BC, only fourteen years after the fall of Samaria, the capitol city of the Kingdom of Israel. Maps showing the deportation and subsequent migrations of the Lost Tribes will show you the geographical locations.

Letters number 1079 and 197 were written by Sennacherib to his father, King Sargon. Letter 1079 tells of a resounding defeat of the army of the Urartians. The troops were slain, and were fleeing. In the followup report of Letter 197 we find that this all happened in the land of Gamir. We still have one more step to go before we confirm that the Israelites are the ones who live in that land.

In letter 112 it's reported that a people "went forth" from the midst of the Mannai, and into the "land of Urartu." Another Letter clearly separates the Urartians, the Mannai and the Gamera or Ga-me-ra-a-a as distinct from each other. The people named in Letter 112 are those Gamerraan; Cimmerians, in English. In captivity, the Israelites were renamed Gimira and Gamera and finally Cimmerians.

But these aren't ALL, just a smaller part of the total number of Israelites that were deported by the Assyrians. There were many thousands of others placed farther east. As the Persian writings on Behistun Rock show, these people were called by a different name. Among the prayer texts of Esarhaddon to the sun-god Shamash are several that name a people never heard of before in history, the "Iskuza" who evidently lived among the Mannai.

The name Iskuza can be easily deduced from the name "Isaac." The Israelites referred to themselves as House of Isaac before their exile - Amos 7:9,16. This name Isaac is the foundation for the name Scythian. Unlike the Assyrians, who gave the Israelites a name based back in the name of the Israelite King Omri, the Persians used the Israelites own name. History shows that the Iskuza were called "Shuthae" by the Greeks, and "Sacae" [also Saka and Sakka] by the Persians. Herodotus says that the Persians called the Sacae "Scythians." The Word Scythian only means nomad or wanderer, or one who lives in "booths." The word booth in Hebrew is Succoth, or scooth. The connections are obvious.

So, in the Assyrian tablets we are confronted with yet more Hard Evidence that the Israelites are not lost to history. Their names were changed. Why some of those folks have been traced to Japan! ! One of the most common Japanese names is Sakai. And their warriors have a name, Samurai, that is so close to the name of the Israelite capitol, Samaria, that the connection between Israel and Japan is virtually cemented.

In fact, the prophecy in Deuteronomy 33:17 that Israel would "push the people to the ends of the earth," is fulfilled. When one makes the connection between the Israelites and the Phoenicians, and, the Israelites and the Celts/Scythians, it's blantly evident that the Isralites were the explorers/colonizers of all history. Those guys went everywhere. But that's another twenty subjects.

Here we zero in on the "transitional" names of the Israeites, allowing us to pick up their history, and thereby, reveal tens of prophecies which God has fulfilled. What better demonstration of God's effectiveness, than wielding some 3500 years of history!

Why, it's enough to make someone act in trust of God's Word. Faithe. What an unshakable foundation from which to deal with doubt and adversity. I've looked up and asked, "Are You really there God?" Then He helps me remember the Lost Tribes and His faithfullness to them. I'm tellin' ya, God is Number One.:-)

I thought you'd like to see an image of tablet 112 talked about above. But before you look at it, I have to give a lot of credit for help with this page.

E. Raymond Capt is one of my "heroes." He has done wonderful work on many subjects. And I recommend that you visit his website. His book, "Missing Links Discovered in Assyrian Tablets," is a treasure store of Lost Tribes information, containing history, archeology, heraldry, and etimology. Mr. Capt is a scholar and documents well. He has given his life to disseminating God-confirming evidence from various disciplines. He is widely travelled and is himself a trained archeologist. Thank you, Raymond.

BEHISTUN ROCK

Behistun Rock is one of the keys to finding the Lost Tribes. The crux is knowing the names used to identify those people. With the trilingual inscription of Behistun Rock we discover what three other cultures called the Ten Tribes. And it wasn't Israelites.

Behistun Rock is found in the Zargos mountains, in northwestern Iran, on an old caravan road that runs from Babylon to Ecbatana, the ancient capitol of Media. The mountain is 1700 feet high and on the sheer face, 300 feet above the base is a huge bas relief commissioned by Darius the Great in 515 BC as a grandiose Ode to his great accomplishments. Listed are the nations and peoples he conquered and ruled as the king of the Medo-Persian empire.

The picture is accompanied by many large panels which are inscribed with three languages. The size of the whole monument is larger than half a football field; 100 feet high, 150 feet wide. One example of the quality of workmanship that went into the monument is the preparation of the surfaces. Where loose rocks and cracks were found, hot lead was added as a stabilizer or fill. At 300 plus feet! !

Sir Henry C. Rawlinson, shown working on a ladder in the sketch below, is mainly responsible for the decipherment of the inscriptions. It's interesting that Rawlinson accomplished the feat of scaling the rock face while copying the inscriptions, and in 1840 deciphering the texts, all by the age of thirty!

The text contains many references that link Darius' subjects with the Israelites. The name "Kana", which is Canaan, appears 28 times. We also have a man named "Sarocus the Sacan who wears a hebrew hat. Included in the nations listed is the Sakka. The term Sakka in Persian and Elamite becomes Gimri in Babylonian. Let me add here that Assyrian and Babylonian are virtually the same. We'll be hearing a lot more from the Gimri when we look at the Assyrian Tablets evidence.

In the picture we see King Darius facing nine captives, which are secured by the neck with a rope. A tenth is under the King's foot. Each of these men is differently dressed.

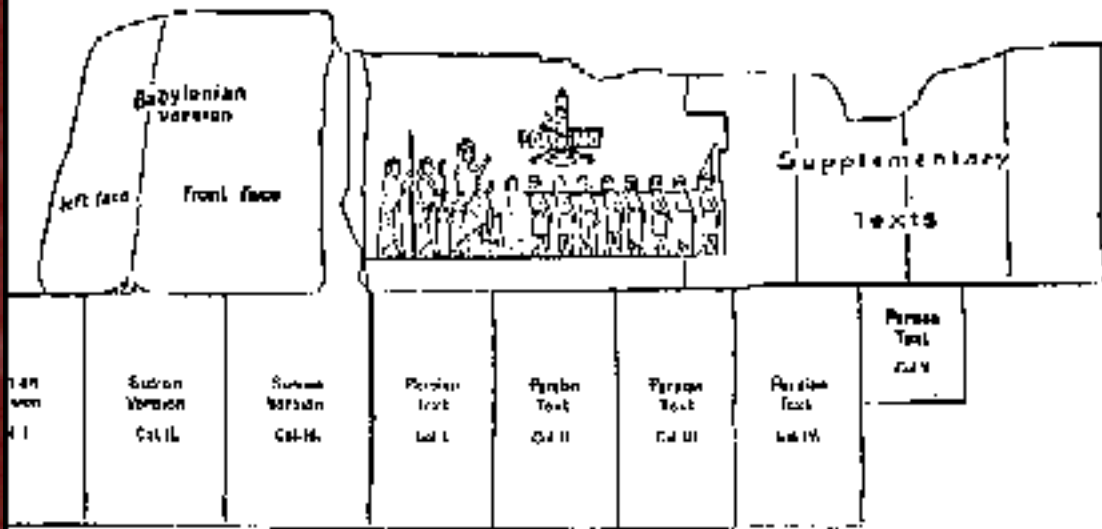

Across the bottom and up one side are many panels containing the story of Darius' conquests. There is also a large section of supplementary text.

The Behistun Rock inscriptions are confirmed in two other places: Darius' tomb, and a gold tablet. The gold tablet again mentions the conquering of the Sakka, while the tomb inscription expands the evidence by talking about three different kinds of Sakka. In all cases, the same name in Babylonian was Gimri. I'll skip ahead a bit to tell you that the Sakka comes from Isaac and becomes Saxon. Gimri comes from Khumri(out of the Biblical name Omri) and goes through Gimmira and the Greek Kimmerioi to Cimmerian.

We'll find that almost all those names we learned in European history are traceable to the Sakka, Gimri and Scythians.

Some elements of the Arms:

- The lion of the tribe of Judah, in the pre-eminent righthand position, wearing the Crown.
 - The Unicorn(Bull) of Ephraim, of equal stature with the Lion.
 - The harp of David, recognizes the Davidic Covenant and symbolizes the marriage of the two lines of Judah in Ireland, through Jeremiah.

AN AMAZING CONNECTION

The ties between Jesus and England are many. The traditions surrounding Glastonbury make it certain that Jesus spent much time there. God has been "grooming" England all through history. From the arrival of Brutus in 1103 BC, Jeremiah in Ireland in 583 BC, the Druid (Hebrew) Priests, the Megalith Builders of prehistory, and the endless waves of Celts and Scythians that migrated to that area, I think we can conclude that England has a part in God's plan.

In another place, I'll be offering evidence of the family ties of the British Royalty to the Roman Royalty. The story reads like a Payton Place of History. Inter-marriages and intrigue. Love and War. Good and Evil. It's all there. Why, the Roman Emperor who ended centuries of Christian persecution, and declared Christianity the religion of the state, Constantine the Great, was born and raised, in England. And was half English, on his mother's side.

The chart below contains the players in the battles of the Roman church that Paul wrote to. They're the family of the Royal House of Britain. The Selurian(Wales) King, Caradoc, (Caracticus in Roman). This part of the chart would be very interesting by itself, and indicates that Paul went to England before going back to meet God on the Apian Way. But there's a lot more juice to this piece of meat.

There is a quite God-typical connection to those Royal folks. Joseph of Arimathea, who was Mary's uncle. He was Jesus' great-uncle and guardian after Joseph the carpenter died; somewhat early in Jesus' life.

Not only is this connection to Jesus' family wonderful. See just who it was that made up that family.

Looking at it humorously, Joseph of Arimathea's daughter married an earthly king and his sisters married God. Anna, married King Beli, and produced the lines of Queen Elizabeth, King Arthur, and the Royal family of the Roman church. Ann, one of Joseph's sisters who became the Great Matriarch of Jesus immediate family, was great-grandmother to "half" the Apostles!! AND Bianca his other sister became grandmother to BOTH Jesus and John the Baptist. No wonder he jumped inside Elisabeth's womb. His cousin, the Messiah, had come to visit.

Please excuse the size of the chart. I couldn't figure out what else to do with it.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

God makes two kinds of promises in the Bible, conditional and UN-conditional. He promised Israel blessings for keeping His Law. He promised Jeroboam a dynasty for keeping His Law. These were conditional promises. However, God gave no conditions when He told Abraham that he would be the father of many nations, and kings would come out of him. Gen 17:4,6. Likewise when He said that the heir would come out of Sarah. God put no conditions on His word. He spoke it as though it would be fact. This is also the case when God talks about David in II Sam 7:16.

David is promised, unconditionally, that his bloodline would never run out. God also said that David's kingdom AND throne would go on forever. David had no say in the matter. He couldn't do anything to hasten or stop those events from occurring. God didn't give David a choice, He just said that those things would come to pass. The whole passage from verse 10 on doesn't seem to make any sense.

When this prophecy of Nathan was given, Israel was at peace with everyone. In fact David ruled from the Euphrates to the Nile. There was peace, prosperity. The Israelites had finally settled down in one place and united as one nation under God and David. Well, then, how can Nathan come and say that God has appointed a place for Israel, He would plant them IN that place, from which they'd move no more, and be free from their old enemies? Weren't they IN their own place? Weren't they at peace with their enemies? And who was thinking of moving? We'll come back to these questions. Verses 11 through 13 don't look so unusual. They portray David's soon to come family history. David will be "made an house(dynasty), he will die a natural death, Solomon is to be king, Solomon will build the temple. And the followup is easily disconnected from David. It says that "his (Solomon's) throne shall be stablished forever." BUT, the first and last parts are very hard to accept. Well, the part about David's bloodline (his house) might be OK. David had a lot of kids and they all lived 3000 years ago, so there are probably some people around who come from David's bloodline. But can anyone believe that the last part is true? Does David's "throne" exist today? Today is part of forever, isn't it?

Let's go one step further in establishing the impossibility of this promise. We have to tie these two parts together. Psalms, Jeremiah and I Kings all say that the "house" and the "throne" go together. I Kings 2:4, "shall not fail thee a man on the throne of Israel." And did you notice how that statement adds a whole new dimension to the picture? Not only must there be a direct, bloodline descendant of David ruling, he or she must be ruling over some Israelites!! Is it possible that in today's modern world we can fulfill these conditions? Yes, but only through the teaching on the Lost Tribes.

Let's fill out this promise to David by looking at Psalm 89. We have two renderings of the events. First an overview of the basics, verse 4. David's "seed is stablished forever, and his throne to all generations." Then starting in verse 22, David is promised that no enemy would exact (prosper, Isaiah 54:17) upon him, nor through war would his old enemies, Canaanites, Egyptians, Edomites, etc., hurt him. He also gets honor and other good stuff.

Then God reiterates the forever part in verse 29. Not satisfied, God makes sure we heard by pinning His promise to the Sun and the Moon. Jeremiah echoes Nathan in chapters 31 and 33. In 33:17 he says that, "David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel." And 31:35-36 says if there's a sun, moon or stars, there'll be a nation Israel. Mission impossible.

The only conclusion that can be drawn from these promises is that somewhere in the world, this minute, there is a bloodline descendant of King David ruling over the descendants of the Israelites.

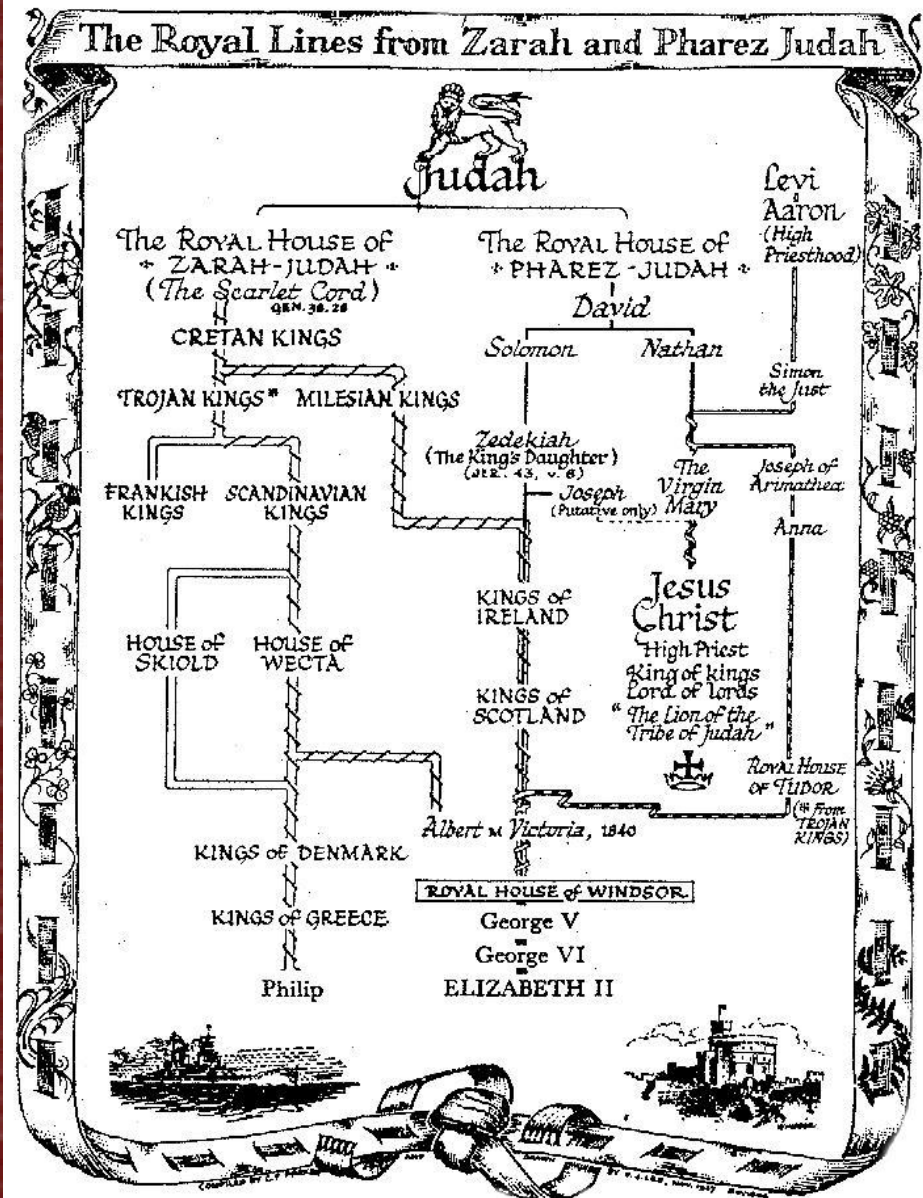

Let's show off God a bit. See how He worked out this mission. Gen 49 is a crossroads of the Bible. Yet most people don't understand the implications of Jacob's actions in passing out the blessings and birthright before he dies. Jacob gives Joseph, and therefore his boys Ephraim and Manasseh, all the good stuff. Virtually the whole birthright. Jacob only keeps back the right to be king of the family and make it's governing laws. This means that although Joseph and his family will be the rich nobility of Israel, someone from Judah(a Jew) will be king.

When Joseph dies, the Tribe of Ephraim will be the pre-eminent tribe of the nation, but will accede to Judah in being king. As soon as Joseph dies in Egypt, some one from the tribe of Judah will take the rulership under Pharaoh. This person will be from the Zarah family of Judah; he was firstborn. Two hundred years after the secession of Judah from the nation Israel, Assyria conquers Samaria and deports the ten tribes(millions of them) to northern Mesopotamia. Most of them migrate to northwest Europe and the British Isles over the next 17 centuries. But never fear, we still have a Judahite king in Jerusalem named Zedekiah. Oops! Here comes Nebuchadnezzor. He conquers Judah, kills Zedekiah's sons and carries Zedekiah and 95% of the people to Babylon. The line is cut!! What about David's promise now?

No problem. The Zarah line is ruling all across the northern Mediterranean. By this time they've got colonies in Spain, Ireland, and Britain. But the "throne of David" is not in those places. It is in Jerusalem. And the male bloodline has been cut! But not the FEMALE. God allowed the daughters to inherit when no male heirs were available. So Jeremiah takes the King's two daughters, and leaves for Ireland. He drops off one daughter in Spain and then marries the Pharez-Judah daughter of Zedekiah to the Zarah-Judah High King of Ireland. This final move sets things straight; the way God outlined them. Zarah is back on top. The "throne" is preserved. The resting place for Israel is being prepared for the arrival of the ten tribes as they begin to migrate across Europe.

All things are possible with God.

The chart below briefly shows the progression of the Royal lines Zarah-Judah and Pharez-Judah. I have read that Queen Victoria spent one million Pounds establishing her genealogy. There is a wonderful genealogy chart produced by R.H. Milner which lists ALL the kings to descend out of Judah. Let me bore you with the list of Royal lines included on this chart: Troy, Sicambrians, Franks, ancient British, Byzantine, Tudor, Anglo-Saxons, Norse, Normans, Guelph, Wettin, Skiold, Irish, Scottish, and Hungarian. You can obtain this chart by going to The Source, http://www.the-source.com/~stagg/royalty.html

TROJANS/MILESIAK/CELTS/SCYTHIANS

I can recall one place in Spain that is named after a Biblical family; however not one of the tribes. This is Zaragoza, which comes from Zarah, Judah's first-born.

It was Zarah's family that ruled for over a 100 years in Egypt after Joseph's death, and before the Egyptians revolted against the (Hyksos) foreign rulers. At that time the nobility, the Zarahites, fled across the Mediterranean sea to already established cities. Cities that had been founded by their own family: Troy, Athens, Miletus, and more. Diodorus talks of two exoduses out of Egypt, one by sea, one under Moses. These Zarahites then migrated west, the Milesian/Zarahites arriving in Spain and Ireland near 600-700 BC.

One famous Trojan/Zarahite named Brutus landed in Britain 1103 BC and founded New Troy; later to be renamed London.

It's this Zarah stream of the Judah line that makes sense out of Ezekiel's prophecy of 17:22-24 and 21:25-27. The high tree is the Pharez line, the low tree is the Zarah line. Him that is high is Pharez, him that is low is Zarah. It was the Pharez line that came out of Egypt as the rulers of the Judah line (Jacob gave Judah the sceptre and lawmaking). With the Zarahites gone to the northern Mediterranean, the Pharezites took their rightful place as rulers.

The exalting of the Zarah line was when Jeremiah married off one of King Zedekiah's daughters to the High Zarahite King of Ireland about 583 BC. Thereby bringing the two lines together and establishing the Zarah line again as pre-eminent. All the kings and queens of the British Isles and northwest Europe come out of that union.

And why not? Didn't God say that David would "never want for a man on the throne?" These kings and queens out of the line of Judah were and have been ruling over the Lost Tribes these many centuries: 25-plus.

I haven't time to properly research the subject, but it has come to my attention that George Washington and other American Fathers had ties back to English nobility. And John F. Kennedy's heritage included kings of Ireland. Methinks Judah is ruling the United States as well. Here's some more information on American Presidents' ties with the line of David/European royalty

THE MEETING PLACE OF JUDAH: ZARAH -- PHAREZ

God had to get the "Isles afar off" ready for the House Israel, so He sent two Houses of Zarah-Judah; the Trojans to England and the Milesians to Ireland. Brutus, the grandson of the Trojan King Aeneas, rounded up hundreds of defeated rebels after the seige of Troy, and made his way to Spain where some of his countrymen had previously migrated. Many of these compatriots sailed with Brutus as he went to England. He landed there in 1103 BC, moved inland somewhat until coming to a likely spot for a settlement. He gave this town the name of New Troy. This was later to become the capitol of the reconstituted tribe of Ephraim, and the final resting place of the Davidic Throne. London. God was also preparing this land for the influx of Israelites which started some 500 years later.

Some centuries later, God had replaced those Spanish Zarahite Trojans with their cousins the Zarahite Milesians. After living for some time in Spain, some of the princes struck out to establish new kingdoms in Ireland. To do this they had to conquer their cousins of the tribe of Dan; the Tuatha de Dannan. After a family squabble that left only one of the original three brothers who came to Ireland, Eochaidh (Yo-kee) The Heremon (king) assumed the throne of Ard-Righ, High King. This all happened around 600 BC. Eochaidh was well in place to receive the bloodline of the Davidic line of Pharez-Judah.

Within three years of the final fall of Jerusalem, God's Trustee of the Davidic Throne, arrives in Ireland with his scribe Simon Brug, a curious collection of ancient relics, which include a harp, a large chest, a three hundred pound stone, and more. Beside one other in the party, the band of four was rounded out by the daughter of the blinded, imprisoned King of Judah, Zedekiah.

It wasn't enough for God to keep the promise that Judah would supply the rulers of the Tribes of Israel. If that were the case, then God could have quit right there and had a day off. He would have had some Zarah-Judah kings ready for the Lost Tribe's arrival starting around 500 BC. But He'd made that promise to David. So David's bloodline had to be in the mix, too. That's why He had to draft Jeremiah to "plant" that bloodline in the future land of Israel. God's plan for Israel had been side-tracked. With the marriage of Zarah-Judah Eochaidh to David-Pharez-Judah Tea Tephi, things were again set right according to God's Plan, Promise and Prophecy:

- 1-Judah would have the sceptre; Gen 49:10
- 2-David would have his "man on the throne;" II Sam 7:16
- 3-Israel would assume it's new land, II Sam 7:10, to "renew" it's strength. Is 41:1, for the spreading of Christianity.
- 4-The fulfillment of a multitude of prophecies by Ezekiel, Isaiah, Hosea, and others.

Jeremiah even set the future "priesthood" of the church in motion when he established Colleges in Ireland. You could say he was the author of our Constitution. Besides schools, he's the great Law-Giver of Ireland. It's Jeremiah's Law that became Irish Common Law, then British Common Law, which processed through our Pilgrims as the Mayflower Compact, and became our Constitution. Jeremiah also instituted the Three Great Faires of Ireland. Do you suppose that these political/business gatherings fell approximately at the same times as Passover, Pentacost, and Tabernacles? Hmmm.

Knowledge is Power. God knows everything, hence is All Powerful. Neat.

Who have been the two most powerful nations on earth, excluding that Johnny Come Lately the USSR? The United States, as a single nation. England as an Imperial nation. These two countries controlled most of the world's information. They are the ones who "pushed the people's to the end's of the earth." They have for 200 years controlled and contained most of the world's knowledge.

The point I make is that we're well educated people, we Americans and British. That condition is no accident of history. It's a move on God's part. 2500 years ago God sent Jeremiah to Ireland to establish the educational system that would weather the Satanic Ignorance of the Dark Ages, and provide a foundation for our modern level of education. Who still has the best schools today? The Irish.

Or perhaps you think the various conquerors and emperors of history, and even the mighty Roman Empire itself, had a blind-fit and never knew that Ireland was there. The Romans went to England and spent many resources to maintain a hold in England. They never could bring the whole country in line, as Isaiah predicted, Is 54:17; they had to give up and build walls. They wouldn't have had near the trouble with Ireland.

Ireland is a VERY special place. It's the Cradle of the Spiritual and State governments of modern Israel.
